

Targeting: current practice

- Most of the current applications of big data and analytics live at the intersection of.....
- information on the behaviors of consumers and the ability to micro-target

The election: Psychographic data

- Behavioral data may help us understand whom to target
- Does not tell us the message: How to target

The Trump campaign

Combined information from

- 1) Social media activity – Facebook, etc.
- 2) Psychographic surveys to capture 5 basic personality types (e.g., via the MyPersonality app)

Social Media activity: Big data

- Demographic profile: geographical locationpolitical and religious views...
- User-generated content
- Social network structure
- User preferences and activities comprising their likes, group memberships, attended events, installed applications, and tags in photos or posts.
- Information about friends

Psychographic profiles: Small data

- Users fill out a handful of psychological questions from the Big Five personality questionnaire ("I panic easily," "I contradict others").
- Based on the evaluation, users received a "personality profile"—individual Big Five values—and could opt-in to share their Facebook profile data with the researchers.

OCEAN Personality Model

We use the established scientific OCEAN scale of personality traits to understand what people care about, why they behave the way they do, and what really drives their decision making.

OPENNESS

Do they enjoy new experiences?

CONSCIENTIOUSNESS

Do they prefer plans and order?

EXTRAVERSION

Do they like spending time with others?

AGREEABLENESS

Do they put people's needs before theirs?

NEUROTICISM

Do they tend to worry a lot?

Putting the two together

The study is based on a sample of 58,466 volunteers from the United States, obtained through the myPersonality Facebook application (www.mypersonality.org/wiki), which included their Facebook profile information, a list of their Likes (n = 170 Likes per per...

Michal Kosinski et al. PNAS 2013;110:5802-5805

Can evaluate a person better than...

- 10 Facebook “likes” to know you better than an average work colleague
- 70 “likes” to outdo what a person's friends knew
- 150 what parents knew
- 300 “likes” what their partner knew
- More “likes” could even surpass what a person thought they knew about themselves.
- On the day that Kosinski published these findings, he received two phone calls. The threat of a lawsuit and a job offer.
- Both from Facebook.

Key Insight

- Given the relationship between psychological profiles and Facebook likes and profiles, I can now predict the profiles of others on FB
- Now I can search for specific profiles: all anxious fathers, all angry introverts, for example—or maybe even all undecided Democrats?
- Cambridge Analytica divided the country into 32 profiles based on which messaging was tailored

Anti gun control ads

Messaging

- “For a highly neurotic and conscientious audience the threat of a burglary—and the insurance policy of a gun.” An image on the left shows the hand of an intruder smashing a window.
- “Conversely, for a closed and agreeable audience. People who care about tradition, and habits, and family, ” a man and a child standing in a field at sunset, both holding guns, clearly shooting ducks

Keeping Clinton voters away....

- In the Miami district of Little Haiti, provide news about the failure of the Clinton Foundation following the earthquake in Haiti
- Sponsored news-feed-style ads in Facebook timelines that can only be seen by users with specific profiles—including videos aimed at African-Americans in which Hillary Clinton refers to black men as predators

Today Americans are able to elect a president with godly moral principles. Hillary is a Satan, and her crimes and lies had proved just how evil she is. And even though Donald Trump isn't a saint by any means, he's at least an honest man and he cares deeply for this country. My vote goes for him!

"If you ask me about the Clinton Foundation, do I have a problem when a sitting secretary of state and a foundation run by her husband collects many millions of dollars from foreign governments, many governments which are dictatorships... yeah, I do," Sanders said in an interview with Jake Tapper on CNN.

So, Bernie has the point. I appreciate the way he maintains his independent opinion in spite of all the pressure that is on him as the "second Democratic option". Because that ... See More
